Compassionate Action for a Strange Age Rev. Valerie Mapstone Ackerman

When it feels like the world is tumbling down round us, how do we practice compassion & loving kindness without feeling overwhelmed by all there is to do? The Rev. Valerie M. Ackerman is a (recently) retired UU minister who was a fellow student with Martin Woulfe in seminary; she has served various communities, with an emphasis in preaching and Social Justice.

“Change for Change” Sunday collection.

ALUUC 65th Celebration – A Celebration of Liberal Religion on the Prairie Rev. Martin Woulfe

Abraham Lincoln departed from Springfield on February 11, 1861, leaving behind many legacies, including a deep respect for liberal religion; a century later, a handful of local Unitarians organized a fellowship and dedicated it to his memory. What has been the vision? What have we achieved in sixty-five years, and what might the future promise?

Black Pioneers in a White Denomination Rev. Martin Woulfe

What has been the history of African Americans in this denomination? Why did racial diversity increase during the Civil Rights Movement and why did it sharply drop off at the end of the 1960's? How has increasing racial diversity within our movement become a priority and what might the future hold?

Traditional Milestones during the service, Pot Luck and “Pathways to Membership” after service.
